If you work or play for hours on your PC, having a wallpaper that is interesting to watch can be one of the best ways to spice your view of the system. Nobody likes to fix a blue screen or the Windows logo for hours in the end, so we do things a little more interesting, don't we? We have lost almost endless options of beautiful pictures and animated backgrounds to find the best wallpapers out there. But we didn't just choose the beautiful ones. We have searched specifically for the pictures they make for a good background. They are not too bulky, they provide plenty of space and clarity for icons, and in the case of smarter ones, they offer you a lot of customization options. Static files Can I not stand all the fuss and distractions of something animated or interactive? It's not a problem. You can still choose from millions of beautiful pictures, and although they are not specifically designed to be a wallpaper, which does not mean they will not work as one. Because what we're talking about is essentially just photography, of which there is almost endless amounts of options on the internet. To begin, however, sites like WallpaperFusion have a bonanza of beautiful wallpapers to choose from, between landscapes, fantasy creatures, cars and cartoon characters. Many of them are also compatible with JigsawMania. NASA has a collection of the best images ever taken in space — everything black does for a great contrast with desktop shortcuts — includingthe last shots of Cassini before his death. There are also some beautiful historical shots of NASA archives if you want to have a retro space themed wallpaper. If you prefer something less done and more digitally created, DigitalBlasphemy is doing great wallpapers for years. Some of these links require premium subscriptions or payments. Make sure your wallpaper project goes as a dream following this expert advice from Simon Livesey, director of Home Flair Decor. WHERE START Tourbillon wallpaper, £95 a roll, Farrow & Ball Where you establish the first drop of wallpaper is important. Decide on a starting point and try to choose a place that has a focal point like a fireplace or a fireplace. Otherwise, choose a wall that gets a lot of attention in the room. No matter what direction you make paper in but, if possible, try to finish in the less obvious area like a door or a corner. It will disguise any pattern loss where you can not end up on a complete pattern/design. Strips tend to be the easiest model to match. Make sure to hang full width strips. Straight matching designs that start and end within a roll width of paper are also easier to hang and result in less off-cuts. For the most adventurous models, drop match take the most thought, but offer some of the most interesting designs. This is because they must be aligned horizontally and vertically. It will say on the label of the roll how often the pattern is repeated and this can guide you on how much paper you will need to trim. This is called a pattern repetition and is different by pattern matching. The pattern game is like it matches when you put it on the wall. MEASURE UP Nalina wallpaper, £56 to roll,standard wallpapers are 520mm wide of 10 meters. measure the perimeter of your room and divide 520mm to find out how many lengths or drops you need. measure the drop from the top of the wall to the skirt, then add 10cm. this is so that any imperfection in the wall or ceiling will be represented for when to hang the paper. allowing you to simply cut the excess. (for fancy wallpaper it is necessary to add on the pattern repeat quantity indicated on the label.) divide the length of the roll (10m) from the drop to see how many drops you get from a roll. Finally, divide the number of drops you need for the whole room from the number of drops in a roll to give you the amount of rolls you should buy. buy an extra roll to allow any spoiler length. if you need to buy later, check the lot number as the colors may vary between lots of the same design. pastes and MORE when hanging wallpaper, consider that the dough will create tension as the wallpaper dries, so as not to play around with unions. If you push it too much, you will end up with a shrinkage and with the union display. do not forget to check the time of soaking and read any instructions on the wallpaper label before gluing anything. there are some fancy backgrounds that have a free game so that the print does not braid no matter how you confine the strips together. just paste and hang. you will need a strong adhesive, all purpose and good quality brushes to be able to reachshiny look. Make sure you get the right selection of brushes and rollers to help. Tim Young Find more beautiful wallpapers at Home Flair Decor.
