Accident reporting center hamilton

If you're driving along the streets of Boston or on the Mass Turnpike and get into a car accident, you may be wondering whether or not you have to file a report. Under Massachusetts law, you must report an accident to the Massachusetts Registry of Motor Vehicles (RMV) if the accident results in injury, death, or property damage in excess of $1,000. This report must be filed, within five days of the accident, with the Massachusetts RMV regardless of whether a police report has been filed. Failure to meet this deadline could result in the suspension of your driver's license. Massachusetts Car Accident Report Overview The following table covers the basics of Massachusetts car accident reporting, including instructions on how to file a car crash report in the Bay State. State Statutes Massachusetts General Laws Chapter 90 § 26 When to Report: You must report an automobile accident to the Massachusetts RMV, even if a police officer has already filed a report, if any of the following occur: Death Injury Property damage exceeding $1,000 How to File a Car Crash Report in Washington: If you are involved in an accident meeting the above conditions, you must file a Motor Vehicle Crash Operator Report with the Massachusetts RMV and also the local police department in the city or town where the accident occurred no later than five days after the accident. One copy must also be mailed to your insurance agency. Your report must include: Your name, address and driver's license number Your vehicle registration number and information about the vehicle Names and addresses of any non-motorists involved in the accident Detailed and current information regarding your insurance coverage A detailed explanation of what happened during the accident Any weather, light or road conditions during the accident Details about the accident in a car crash diagram Names and addresses of witnesses who saw the accident but weren't involved Note: State laws are always subject to change through the passage of new legislation, rulings in the higher courts (including federal decisions), ballot initiatives, and other means. While we strive to provide the most current information available, please consult an attorney or conduct your own legal research to verify the state law(s) you are researching. Exchanging Information Under Massachusetts law, you are required to exchange at least (1) name, address and contact details, (2) driver license numbers, (3) license plate numbers and (4) auto insurance information with any motorists involved in the accident. If you hit an unattended vehicle, you should also make an effort to find the owner or driver, and exchange the same information mentioned above. If you are unable to locate the owner of an unattended vehicle, you should leave a note listing your name and contact information, and a brief description of the accident. Do Not Leave the Scene of the Accident If you leave the scene of the accident, you may have your driving privileges revoked or your driver's license suspended. Also, you should be present after an accident in order to administer aid to anybody who may be injured. Whether you caused a major accident driving through Red Bluffs or were rear-ended in Jackson, it's important to know what state law requires of you at the scene of the car crash and afterward. Read on to learn more about Mississippi car accident report basics. Mississippi Car Accident Report Laws The first thing to do after a car accident in Mississippi is to stop, pull over, and give reasonable assistance to anyone who is injured. Drivers should exchange information such as their names, addresses, vehicle registration numbers, driver's license, and insurance information. It's also smart to get the contact information for any witnesses, as their observations may be useful later if there's a dispute as to what happened or who is responsible for damages. If the accident involves injury, death, or damage to property over $500, you must immediately notify local law enforcement by the quickest means of communication possible. The responding officer will conduct an investigation and compile a written report as required by the Mississippi Department of Public Safety (DPS). Law enforcement will file this report directly with DPS, so you are not required to submit your own. However, DPS may contact you to file supplemental reports if they think the original report lacks necessary information. DPS is also responsible for ensuring that drivers involved in an accident were carrying the minimum amount of car insurance required by the state. If you fail to have the requisite amount of insurance, you could face fines or have your license suspended, on top of dealing with the ramifications of your car accident.
