How can you ensure that you are getting the most out of each practice test you take? You need to make sure to take every practical test under realistic testing conditions. What are you doing (maybe unconsciously) that is ruining your realistic test conditions? #1: You must stick to the exact timings.at. If you are not following the timing, you will not be prepared on the day of the test. You have to put yourself in time on your sat practice tests so that you will get used to the test march. It's like training for a marathon. do not present yourself to a marathon without timing your practice and expect to put! sat is a marathon. Time. get used to rhythm, so you have no problem on the day of the test! You're not sure the exact moment when you're allowed the sat? on the sat, the time allowed for each section is listed on the first page of that section of the practice test. below: If you want more guidance, then check out our guide to sat timing. #2: use of the phone but. Dora, you just said at the same time, and if I can't hate my phone, how do i do myself? I suggest you hate a watch instead of a phone. If you get used to time yourself with your phone, you may feel lost on the day of the test when you are not allowed to hate your phone. (note: you are not allowed to have the phone out at all during the test even during breaks.) instead, buy an economic watch like this that you would be able to use on the day of the test, start to smell it during your practice so that you will get used to pacing with the watch, and if you hate my phone in air mode? Don't! Yes, it is better than to hate the phone not in air mode, but you will still have the same problem: you will be so accustomed to rely on your phone to speed up yourself that you can feel using a normal clock/hours the day of the test. What if i'm using my phone as a computer? No! The phone will not be allowed on the day of the test, so make sure to buy an approved computer and use it during the practice of the SAT math calculator section, so get used to it. #3: Using the Calculator on all sections Speaking of calculators, remember that you are only allowed to have the calculator out for a part of the test: the SAT math calculator section. You cannot have the calculator out for reading, writing or non-calculator math test. During your practice, you should use your computer only on a mathematical section that allows you to use a calculator. Do not use the calculator on the non-calculator math section. You need to practice mental mathematics so that you are ready to do mental math on the day of the test. If during your practice, use your computer instead of your brain, you will be tempted to do so on the day of the test. #4: Watch TV, listen to music and/or wear ear plugs For some students, watching TV and/or listening to music while taking the practice test will serve as a distraction, making them score worse because they cannot concentrate. For other students, watching TV and/or listening to music can serve as help, helping them maintain their attention, artificially increasing their score. Either way, you can't have TV on or music playing during practice tests. You have to get used to it try in a quiet environment. said this, do not wear earplugs during your practice. some students like earplugs because it cuts all background noise. However, the board does not allow the oo of earplugs during their tests. you need to get used to hearing background noise while you take the test because on the day of the test, you will have the background sounds of paper rust, scratching pencils, rust cancellations, and more. not during practice tests! #5: eating and/or drinking will not be allowed to eat or drink during the test. You will be allowed to eat and drink outside your test room during scheduled breaks. do not eat or drink during practice tests (exception: you can eat and drink during break.) This may sound stupid, but it is important. If you are trying to eat and test at the same time, it can be a problematic distraction. Besides, your body gets a boost of energy when you have a snack or drink water. If you eat and drink without pause during your practice, you will probably get an energy boost, and the test may seem easier. Then, on the day of the test you could be surprised when the test seems "longer" and "harder" because you do not have additional energy from food and drink. Like I said, the sat is a marathon. train for the sat as such. during your practice, take only food or drinks during scheduled breaks. #6: take unscheduled bath packages just as you will not be allowed to eat or drink during you will not be allowed to leave the room to go to the bathroom during the SAT. You will have to wait to go to the bathroom until the program breaks. Practice this during practice tests. You need to get used to using the bathroom only during scheduled breaks. The last thing you want during the test is to think about how bad you have to pee while trying to do the test. I highly recommend using the bathroom immediately before the start of the test (or you start the practice test). #7: Do not sit at a desk Where you take the test is important. do not sit on the couch or bed! You need to get used to standing. If you sit on the couch or bed during practice tests, you may feel thrown on the day of the test when you are put in a new uncomfortable desk. Set up your practical test environment like the real SAT test environment. Sit at an empty desk or at a table without anything other than your practical test booklet, pencils, cancellations and calculator (when allowed), NOOOOO! #8: Split the test on a couple of days Remember how I said SAT is a marathon? Well, runners are not allowed to split a marathon in several days. It is necessary to practice sitting for SAT tests at full length. While you might not have 4 hours a day to sit for a full length practice test, you need to make sure you sit down for at least two full length practice tests before taking the real SAT. In the days when you cannot sit for a full length practice you should, at least, complete a complete section of the test. For example, sit down for the complete section of non-calculator mathematics 25 minutes without taking any break. The same rules mentioned in this article apply when sitting for one section of the test: No food/drinks, no music/tv/ear plugs, etc. #9: Not Bubbling In It is easy to forget the scantron and only to bypass the answers in the practice test. However, using a scantron can be confused, so you do not want the first time using one to be the day you take the SAT/ACT. During practice tests, practice dazling in responses while working through the practice test. You want to get the practice tan so that you do not accidentally bubble into wrong answers on the day of the test. If you have time, I suggest you check your Scantron responses with your booklet responses at the end of the section, so make sure you have not accidentally bubbled incorrectly. #10: Use the pen Since you need to practice bubbling in, you also need to practice using a pencil and rubber! You must use a pencil on the SAT. NOTE: You cannot use a mechanical pencil. You can only use a regular #2 pencil. I suggest you bring at least 3 pencils #2 sharp with you to your test center. In addition, you should have a basic pencil sharpener and a large rubber. Take your SAT practice tests using these supplies. The SAT day you want to walk in your test center feeling safe and comfortable. To do that, you need yoursimitate the real test environment as much as possible! Get used to having these supplies on your desk. get used to sharpen a broken pencil with your hand trimmer! If you are something like me, any small problem can squirt the nerves during a great test. practice with pencils, deletions and a pencil sharpener, so as not to get nervous using them on the day of the test. #11: Using any support material do not use additional materials during practice tests. As I said, on the day of the test, you will not be allowed to have anything on your desk, except for your test booklet, pencils, eraser, pencils, and your calculator (only during the mathematical section of the calculator). use only those materials during your practice! do not use a formula glove sheet (besides what is provided in the sat math section if you are taking the sat), and do not use a dictionary to search for words! during the test, you will not be able to use any external resources, so do not incorporate into your practice. If there are words you do not know during the sat practice test, try to understand what they mean by using context clues (or words around that word to understand that the word means), try your best to answer questions without looking at the word. You look for the words you don't know so that after finishing the practice test, you can easily find those words and look at them in a dictionary. Summary: how to get realistic practice allcan be summarized simply: obey the test rules during your practice! realistic practice will prepare you the best for ace testing and will make you feel safe and comfortable on the day of testing. still uncertain how to get realistic practice? discover our guide to do the practice test just like the real thing.
