Paper rose template free

These Cricut rolled flowers are really fun to make and great easy starter projects for any paper flower crafts. If you are new to Cricut paper projects, these are a great start. These rolled paper flowers are really an enlarged quilling project. Quilling is the art of rolling paper strips. Here, instead of straight paper strips, we rolled a spiral of petals connected together. It not only creates really even paper flowers, but they are also super easy to make so it's great for collage projects where you might need a lot of paper flowers. I love using rolled paper flowers for wall decorations or even party centerpieces. They look great in a shadow box frame or just by themselves on a blank canvas. I've even made miniature rolled paper flowers for quilling projects on greeting cards. The possibilities are endless. My free flower SVG files are for the Cricut but SVG is a standard file format and can be used with many other cutting machines like the Silhouette. Rolled Paper Flower Templates Sharing is caring so I've made my templates free for everyone. (update: I have since cleaned up my templates and made them more symmetrical so it doesn't look exactly like this photo, but better.) I've included 12 rolled flower SVG files in this set. These paper flower templates are free for personal use and limited commercial use. (feel free to sell the flowers, please just don't redistribute the flower svg) In my initial set of paper rolled flowers, I used a mix of medium-weight (65lbs) cardstock with colored colors and ones that had a white core. While some of the colors available for cardstock with white cores are really pretty, I recommend using cardstock with colored cores when possible. The nature of this design exposes a lot of the core so when it is while it doesn't create as clean of a finish as does the colored core cardstock. Materials for Rolled Flowers – Templates, Cricut, Glue and Cardstock *this article contains affiliate links for your convenience, full disclosures here Cardstock – I prefer to use cardstock with colored cores for rolled paper flowers. They are easier to cut without snags and they look better. Here are some of my favorites for making rolled paper flowers: Assorted Starter Pack – Basic assorted colors, great starter pack, perfect weight for most papercraft projectsCricut Joy Insert Card Packs – You don't have to use these with the Cricut Joy, they are nice material kids for cardmaking.Cardstock Warehouse Brand on Amazon – I love the quality of all the matte-colored cardstock with Cardstock Warehouse. It is my go-to brand for individual matte colors that I might need!Poptone Assorted Variety Pack – This is the perfect peppy assortment of colors of heavy cardstock. It's a heavy cardstock assortment with colors I actually use frequently for cardmaking.Seasonal Assorted Variety Pack – This is a slight variation on the Poptone assortment and has a quite few neutrals that complement almost any accent color.Stardream Metallics Line – For paper crafts, the Stardream line is the go-to for a metallic shimmer finish. It is the perfect sheen to make any project pop. The core is also colored is which hard to find for metallic paper. Cutting Machine – I use a Cricut. Check out my recommendations for Cricut machines and accessories for beginners for more info. Glue – I use Tacky Glue but a hot glue gun works as well. Templates – These rolled flower SVG templates along with 300+ other project templates are free and available in my resource library. In addition to this set of rolled paper flowers, I have many other rolled paper flowers when you're ready to move on to slightly more complicated (but still pretty easy) paper flower projects. The templates for these rolled paper flowers are also free and you will get access to them when you sign up for the newsletter. There are so many different projects you can create with a basic rolled flower. These free Cricut paper flower templates are great for any DIY decor or party prep projects you might have. Sometimes I make a set of these paper flower and make them for one project and then when I get tired of that project or used it for a party, I might pluck them off and repurpose them on another project. Recycle reuse crafting style! Cricut Flower Template Tutorial Step 1: Cut out the paper flower templates – Cricut cutting machine recommended I use my Cricut to cut these rolled paper flowers. I've cut hundreds if not thousands of paper flowers using my Cricut at this point. I know the general consensus is to use the Standard Grip mat but I find it really tedious to clean the green mat. Plus, something happened to these recent batches of Standard grip mats, they are super sticky and peel off in chunks. My preference is actually a fresh Light Grip mat. These designs usually do fine with the blue mats. Using the Light Grip mat makes cleaning a breeze. If you are going to resize this rolled paper flower to something much smaller (like less than 5inches wide for an unrolled spiral), I would recommend sticking to a Standard grip mat. Step 2: Rolling the paper flower template Starting from the outermost edge, roll the petal strip into a tight roll. I like using tweezers mostly because I already have them. Some more serious people using specialized quill tools. I can't be bothered. You want to start the roll rather tight, you can always loosen it later if that looks better to you. If you are using heavier cardstock, you might want to curl the starting end with a scraper or credit card so it bends more easily. Step 3: Secure the Rolled Flower After a few turns, secure the center of the flower with a paper clip or bobby pin. This is not totally necessary but I find it is easier than holding the tweezers in place. I also like keeping the clip in place while the glue is drying, it adds a little more control to the end look of the rolled flower. Step 4: Complete the rolling Now roll the whole thing. A quick note on my templates, on some of the templates, the start end of the template does not fit the rest of the outline. I did this purposely because it rolls better. If you don't like the look of it, simply just cut that part off. Step 5: Glue and Secure the rolled paper flower Fold the circle tab underneath the roll and glue in place. I like using Tacky Glue for rolled flowers because it is inexpensive and non-toxic. However, you do have to hold it in place for a good 10 seconds if not longer. The stiffer your cardstock and the more tightly you've rolled it, the longer you'll have to hold it in place. If you are impatient and love using hot glue guns, that will go much faster. Just add some glue and hold for 5 seconds and it will set. In terms of how tight or loose you want the rolled flower, I like it not super tight. I have a different set of rolled paper flowers (Deluxe Set of Rolled Paper Flowers) that I have designed for a tighter roll. I like to set it loose and let it unwind a bit as the glue is setting. A few additional tips: I sometimes like to use masking tape to hold everything in place while the glue is drying. Sometimes a hair elastic works too. Alternatively, you can just use faster drying glue like the hot glue gun. I've also mixed and matched by petals. I cut off part of petal strips from different designs and mix and match them so that the flower has a different center stamen design than the outermost petals. You can also do the same with the same petals but just different colors. I love doing a subtle gradient of darker pink in the core to a lighter pink on the outer petals. You can also combine more contrasting colors and start with something completely different than what you up with. The possibilities are endless! Interested in all my other projects using rolled paper flowers? I have a few ideas here. The templates for all these projects are also all free in my resource library. For more visual learners, I've created a video tutorial showing you how I roll these paper flowers. I am a paper flower making enthusiast. I might be making really complex paper flowers but I surprise myself how often I go back to just a basic rolled flower to finish a particular project or complement a specific item in the bouquet. This set of rolled paper flowers not only is essential in my paper flower bouquets but it's the perfect add on for cardmaking, DIY decorating, entertaining and party planning. You name it, I've probably made it. I hope it becomes an essential paper flower in your repertoire too! Make them for your next party with my Flower Petal Template! Here is a quick list of what you will need to make one large paper flower. Supplies: Cricut Cutting Machine(optional) Gina C. Creates Files (free download below) 8.5×11 cardstock, (I use Recollection 65 lb from Michael's) Scissors Smooth thick color marker Hot glue gun & glue sticks 6in cardboard circles (I use 6in cake boards) or 4in for small paper flower Floral wire First thing to do is to download my free flower petal template below. Included in the download are cutting machine files, SVG & DXF; along with printable files PNG & PDF. You will get 4 different flower petal sizes, x-small, small, medium & large. Large Flower (16in) 5 large petals 5 medium petals 5 small petals x-small not needed In this tutorial, I will show you how to use my Printable PDF files. They're to be used as a tracing template and can be used over and over again. With my SVG cutting files you may like your cutting machine to cut it for you. However, when it comes to making paper flowers, I prefer to cut them with scissors instead. (Seems faster). After unzipping the downloaded folder, find the 4 separate PDF files and print them using your home printer. I use an off white cardstock, the thicker the better, the max thickness of what your printer can handle. Once you print all 4, cut each template petal out. You will be using these as a tracing guide. Lay one template petal on your color choice of 8.5×11 cardstock, trace and cut each petal. I like to save time, because we all have busy lives, so I without tracing lay the template over 3 sheets of paper and cut around template with my scissors and cut 3 sheets at once. Next you will have to curl your petal, this gives it the realistic look! I use a Crayola thick marker for my large petals and a smooth pen for my other petals. Curl each tip of the petal. Then you will need to fold the bottom tab where the glue is going to be applied. Do this to all your petals. Now we need to get our base ready. With a 6 inch cake board and floral wire, find the center and poke the wire through each end and tie it on other side. (Refer to pictures below). You can heat up your glue gun and start gluing the outer larger petals first spaced evenly. (See pictures below). Do this with each different size petal. Add any paper flower center of your choice. And your done! Get my favorite paper flower centers, FREE SVG Cut File | Paper Flower Center Medium Flower (14in) large petals not need 5 medium petals 5 small petals 5 x-small Small Flower(12in) large petals not needed medium petals not needed 10 small petals 4/5 x-small petals Try out these cute textured leaves! Fold 8.5×11 paper long ways. Cut a round tear drop shape. Fold at a 45 degree angle zig zag. Then unfold to view textured leaf. Tips: Make sure your scissors are sharp. Be cautious when curling your petals, paper may rip. Have tons of glue sticks at hand. You can make 2 small petals / 4 x-small petals, with one 8.5×11 sheet of cardstock. Tools Materials Steps Gather tools and materials. Cut all pieces according to pattern notes. Shape your smallest sets of petals with curling tool. All curl upward, except last set. Shape remaining petals on two top corners to form point in center. With needle nose pliers, form spiral on tip of green wire. Slide wire through tab of smallest petals and glue to secure. Form point on first petal and glue. Wrap second petal around first and glue one corner. Glue together at center two matching layers of petals that curl in different directions. Slide onto wire, glue at base and rotate petals as shown. Layer and glue remaining petals. Slide onto wire, glue and form into a rotation. For all petals, keep rotation in same direction. See photo for example of how center of rose should look. Slide final two petal sets onto wire. Arrange petals to offset from other layers, and glue into place. With curling tool, shape sepal inward, then shape lips in other direction. Slide onto wire and glue at base of flower. Fold leaves in half then with tool press vein lines when holding in palm of hand. Glue wire between two offset leaves. Arrange stems of flowers and leaves. Flaunt Your Flower Power!
